We'll begin with a fun roleplay and thereafter introduce a framework for Listening and Asking that begins with Mindset and delves into Effective Questions and the Iceberg Model. We'll have an opportunity to reflect with colleagues on our own successes and challenges in this space, and ultimately we'll tie the role that Dialogue plays back to Trust-Based Relationships.

Effective communication is often approached through the lens of presence, clarity, active listening, and compassion. An obvious yet oft overlooked factor in effective communication and leadership is the role culture plays in what we hear, see, value, understand and how it shapes our actions, what motivates us and how we approach our success journey. This popular session returns to LCLD with a twist – we will focus on how cultural fluency impacts our communication and leadership and integrate practicing solutions to real-life scenarios.
